

Jasper raced out the door trying to catch up to his best friend Flynn so they could walk to school together.

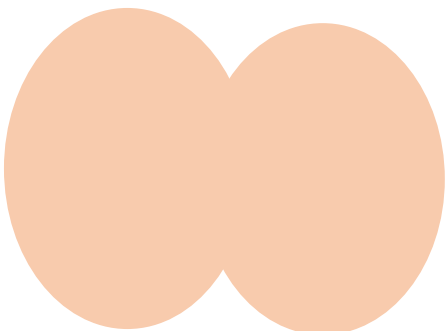

Hey Flynn, Wait for me!

Suddenly he stopped!

His eyebrows shot up and his mouth dropped open.

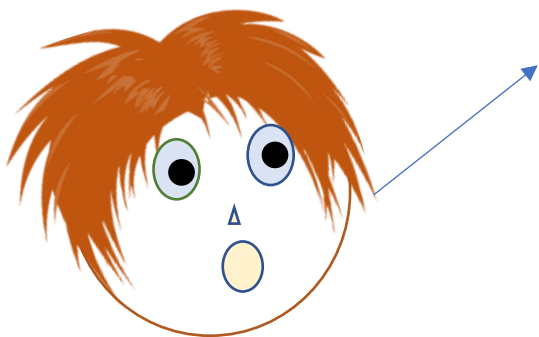

Poking out of the muddy ground in Mr Moffatt's garden was a BIG PINK BUTT. Imagine that! Right there in the garden between the cabbages and cauliflowers was a big pink butt.

Hey Flynn! Come quick! There's a big pink butt in Mr Moffatt's garden".

- Flynn ran over to his friend and they both stared through the fence. Sure enough, it was a big pink butt.

"Wow," said Flynn.
"What's a big pink butt doing in Mr Moffatt's garden?"

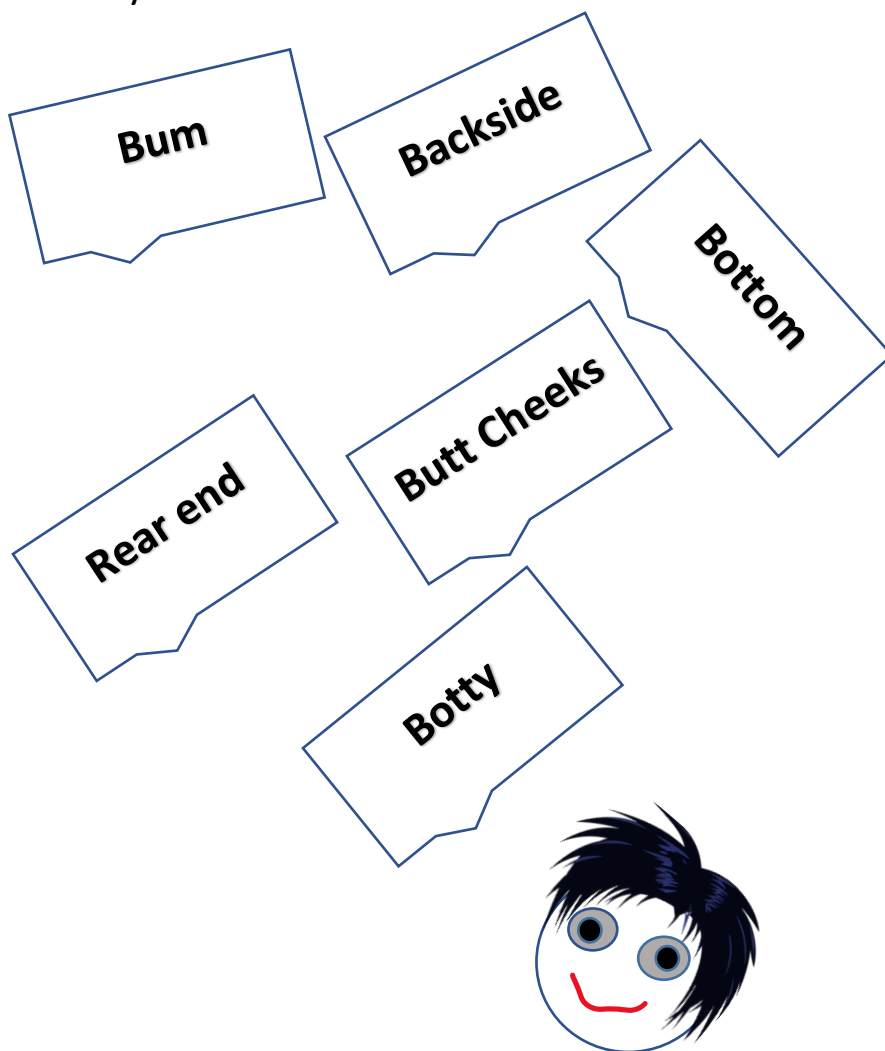

"I'm a bit scared," said Jasper. "It looks like the rain has uncovered a giant."

“Yes” said Flynn looking worried. “We better tell our teacher; she’ll know what to do.”

“But we can’t say “Butt” to Mrs Murphy” giggled Flynn feeling much braver. “She’ll go mad at us.”

The boys tried to think of another word.

Hahaha They all sound funny or rude

“We can’t say the “A...” word like Dad,” said Flynn “because that is really rude.”

Well, it will just have to be “Butt”, sighed Jasper

By the time they got to school,

Oh no! we are late!

Is it a Giant's BUTT!

How will they tell their teacher?

What are the consequences of being late for school?

This and four more fun adventures can be found in Kerrie Marshall's latest graphic novel, 'Flynn and Jasper'. Available from Amazon or via the website www.brainasize.com Also available in graphic style is "bush animals to the rescue."